Broth Fifty Years Old.

A flask containing a veal broth made by the celebrated French biologist, Louis Pasteur, in the 50's, when he was making his first experiments in the sterilization of liquids, was one of the interesting exhibits of the effects of Dr. Ernest La Place at Medical-Chirurgical hospital. The broth, which had been preserved by the eminent scientist, was in no way affected by the passage of more than a half century since his manufacturer demonstrated Pasteur's theory that germs are not spontaneously generated and that, when them removed, micro-organisms may be preserved indefinitely. The flask was given Dr. La Place by Pasteur 24 years ago, when the Philadelphia surgeon was studying in Paris under the noted Frenchman and because of his associations is considered valuable. — Philadelphia

Was John Orth's Friend.

An interesting paragraph has just visited France, and its contents recall to our contemporaries three of "Robinson," as they always describe Defoe's hero. Born at Nee in 1871, Charles Montoni went to Argentina in 1881 and later qualified as a surgeon. At Buenos Ayres in 1899 he was called to attend a ship's captain who had been wounded in a fight with Chilean sailors. After the patient's recovery the doctor was retained and embarked upon the steamer Marguerite, whose captain was John Orth, the Austrian architect, whose title is a mystery. In the steamer of Magellan on August 25, 1899, during a terrible storm, the boat was swept overboard by a wave and washed up on an island. When he regained consciousness the vessel had disappeared and the doctor concluded that she and her crew were lost. For eight months he lived on the island on the eggs of sea birds and fish, and we are told he was less happy than "Robinson," because he had no gun. Then a ship appeared and took him to Panama.

Elephants Asleep.

A question often raised in regard to the African elephant is whether these animals ever rest or not, says a writer in County Life. At first blush it would appear that there could only be one answer to the question. So huge an animal must expend a terrible amount of energy and therefore as one might reasonably infer must need more time than smaller animals for rest and reparation. Nevertheless many travellers and some naturalists have asserted that the African elephant in its native state never sleeps or at least never lies down. A correspondent who has sent the photographs direct from Malek on the White Nile says in the communication that accompanies them that the pictures represent "a herd of female elephants photographed in the bush near Malek, in the Megalla province of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. It has been maintained that the African elephant never lies down to rest. Strangely enough he seems to be sleeping."

Astronomy in British Army.
Astronomy for soldiers is to be taught in the British army, under the direction of the distinguished astronomer, Sir Norman Lockyer. To illustrate the value of a knowledge of the stars he tells how when Lord Wolseley ordered a night attack upon Abd Pasha's forces at Tel-el-Kebir the expedition would have failed but for two naval officers whose study of navigation had made them more or less familiar with the heavens.

A Pennsylvania Turkey Drive.
Howard B. Poncy recently drove a flock of turkeys from Berlin, Clinton county, to Johnstown, Pa. The flock numbered nearly 300 and was driven along the highway without difficulty like sheep. The flock was driven by easy stages and attracted general attention.

Track of Bird Migration.
Some most remarkable "migrations" have been made of ringed birds, and one again Portugal takes a prominent place. Two birds, first ringed in their nest, one in Ross-shire and one in Renfrewshire, Scotland, have been reported, the first 15 miles south of Juaro, the other near Aveiro, in Portugal. These "migrations" in Portugal are becoming so considerable that it may soon be possible to track out a regular line of migration along the coast and across Spain parts of which are perhaps the best bird paradise in the world. Quite a number of English ornithologists are now engaged in studying birds there and investigating migration.

Sports in Hyde Park.
The organized games for school children to be started in Hyde Park will be quite like old times for the park itself. For, in the early days, Hyde Park was a regular sporting center, celebrated in Charles I's reign for its foot races, and in Cromwell's time for fox-coaching matches. Cromwell himself tried his skill as a coachman there and ended up by being flung off the box. And when it was not the scene of playing it formed a meeting place for fighting. Here the duke of Hamilton and Lord Merton fought their battle in 1712, and Charles James Fox had his "duel of honor" with Mr. Addam.—London Chronicle.

ON THE FUNNY SIDE

Human Hair Lace
It is made from human hair not as you would consider it, but probably with a bit of fuzz. The lace is made in strips and the hair is held in place by evolution lace or otherwise the lace would unravel. The article is made by hand and the pattern is sewed to the cloth in a very small size.
It is used in the manufacture of wigs made from human hair, but is used also when the hair is pulled out by the roots. When strips of human hair are used it is very difficult to distinguish a wig, do with from the real hair. The wigs are fastened to the scalp by means of small pieces of ebony plates which are removed at night. Wellmings who sell them

Sponge a Special Delicacy With which to Finish a Meal—Cookies Made With Sour Cream—
Beaten Steak

A lemon sponge mix a cupful of with the juice of four lemons and the yolks of four eggs and add to the mixture. Thin it out with cream and a half of water and until it begins to grow thick and enough melted gelatin to it when it becomes cold. Strain mixture into a mold and just as it is to stiffen fold in the whites of eggs beaten to a stiff froth. If gelatin is used four good cookies will usually be enough.
Delicious cookies are made with cream. Beat half a liberal cup butter with two cupfuls of sugar two eggs and a cupful of sour cream. Flavor with half a grated nut and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Add a spoonful of soda dissolved in a cupful of water and half a teaspoon of salt. Stir in enough sifted flour make a dough that can be rolled out. Let stand a few minutes, then dust the molding board, drop a big lump of the dough and turn into cookies using as little flour as possible for rolling. After this batch get into cookies dip out some more so on until all is used. In this way no much flour is likely to be used, as when the whole mass is met out at once on the board, and, of course, less flour need in rolling the cookies the better they are.
Southern beaten steak—A cheap juicy piece of meat is used. Cut meat into small steaks the size of hand. Season each piece highly with salt and pepper. Pound each piece until it is almost like a cup of coffee and dip in cornmeal very hot and serve it once for breakfast with coffee and rolls or corn bread.

For another, beat first steak piece of round stock until the tough fibers are broken, then rub it with monjoli and toothpick over. Pound again and sprinkle with salt. Do over the pounds a third time if desired and fold yet again. It should be about an inch and a quarter thickness. Press it a little to make adhere and have the edges of uniform thickness. Rub with a little flour just like my other steak and spread on butter.

Finnian Haddle.—Wash the fish, put flesh side in a dripping pan covered with cold water, let stand on back of range 20 minutes. Drain and rinse with water. Place on platter, cover with milk and bake 20 minutes.

Croquettes—Prepare fish as for fried finnian haddle. Take the fish piston with thick white sauce. Shape croquettes dip in crumbs egg and milk and fry in deep fat.

In Chafing Dish—Soak fish over heat, then boil one hour and a half and bone it and put in chafing dish cream sauce made as follows: one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons flour milled together, add hot milk about one pint and a half (no more than the right consistency), pour over the fish and heat thoroughly in chafing dish about twenty minutes.

Turkey Stew.

Cut the turkey from the bones and put it into nest pieeces. Heat the pan over diluting it with hot water or with stock if the supply is too small. Season with salt, pepper, Worcester-shire sauce or catup and put the meat into the gravy when the gravy is boiling hot. When the meat has simmered in it for ten minutes add a tablespoonful of cranberry or currant jelly, thicken with a little brown flour and serve either on toast or fried bread with triangles of it arranged around the edge of the dish.

Lemon Pudding

Soak for half an hour a pint of milk crumb in one quart of milk then add the grated rind of two lemons one cup of sugar, yolks of two eggs and pinch of salt and tablespoon of butter. Bake until done and cool out a little, and frost with the whites of two eggs beaten to a stiff froth (not) then add one cup of sugar and juice of one lemon. Heat all together on top of pudding set in oven and brown just a little.

Stewed Ox Tail.

Wash the tail in cold water, and cut in joints dividing the larger for steaks. Put into a saucenpan with one sliced carrot and a medium size onion cut up, cover with water and stew very gently for two hours, skin off as much fat as possible from the top then thicken the gravy with flour mixed with a little ketchup or Barry's sauce.

To Mend Linens

Fit the worn part securely in an ordinary embroidery hoop. Take off the foot of the sewing machine. Use fine thread and stitch back and forth, moving the frame so that the stitching will be at right angles—So

The KITCHEN CABINET

COMPANY DESSERTS

When entertaining company we expect to put a little more thought and expense into the menu and a few extra thoughts on desserts are usually welcoming.

Fruit Souffle

Put a half cup of boiling water in a saucenpan on the stove melt in two tablespoomspoonfuls of butter and stir in a half cup of flour and cook thoroughly. Then add gradually one-half cup of milk two tablespoomspoonfuls of sugar, and when cool the yolks of two eggs. Beat well then fold in the stiff whites of the eggs. Have a layer of jam in a pudding dish and pour the mixture over it. Set the dish in a pan of water and bake for half an hour in a moderate oven.

Moribusburgh Pie—Mix together two cups of grated apples, one and a half cups of sugar, three eggs well beaten two tablespoomspoonfuls of melted butter the grated rind and juice of one lemon and a cup of thin cream. This is enough for two pies. Bake with an under crust and strips of pastry across the top. A meringue may be added in place of the strips and the whites reserved for it.

Macedon of Fruit—Use either lemons or orange jelly and strain into a pitcher. Set a mold in a pan of strained ice and salt, pour in half an inch of the jelly and let it harden.
Then arrange over it a garnish of fruits and nuts and pour over it the more jelly, without disturbing the pattern and let it stand three days (if dry days).

Charlotte of Fruit—Line a mold with jelly by letting a layer harden in the bottom then gently pour in a small mold on that and fill the space between with jelly. When hard boil the center mold with warm water and in a minute it can be removed without disturbing the jelly. Color the reminder of the jelly plain and mix with fruit and nuts and fill the mold with this mixture and chill.

A delicious cake to serve with any light dessert is a sponge baked in a sheet and cut in squares which are then covered with an orange frosting.
This may be easily done by using a fondant which may be warmed over hot water flavored and the squares dipped in this.

Winter Desserts.

During the cold weather the heating and heavier desserts are welcome although fresh and frozen dishes will not be entirely forgotten.

Pumpkin Pudding

In one cup of flour add one-half a teaspoon each of salt and soda, two tablespoomspoonfuls of mixed spice, add two cups of bread crumbs not dry, and one cup of finely chopped molasses. Beat two eggs until light, add a cup of molasses to the other two ingredients then a pound of prepared fruit, which may be a mixture of raisins, citron and candied orange and lemon peel. Mix and nuts may be added. Put in molds and steam three hours at least.

Create a quarter of a cup of butter add flavoring and a tablespoomspoonful of boiling water then add a cup of powdered sugar. Chill and serve.

Baked Indian Pudding

Scald one-fourth of a cup of cornmeal in a cup of milk add a half a cup of sugar and a half cup of molasses, a little salt and ginger and one tablespoomspoonful of butter. Bake slowly three hours.

More milk may be added as it cooks away. A half cup of suet may be sprinkled over the top to form a rich crust.

Silver and Gold Custard

Take whites of four eggs slightly with one fourth of a cup of sugar, add a speck of salt and a few drops of almond extract and a pint of hot milk. Strain into molds and steam or bake until done.

Scald another pint of milk add to the beaten yolks of four eggs cook till it begins to thicken and add one
and a pint of hot milk. Strain tard from the molds and serve with the yellow around them.

Cottage Pudding

which is just a plain cake served hot with a lemon or vanilla sauce, is easy and quickly made and well liked by almost all people.

Fruit juices may be used for souce for cottage pudding. Thicken with flour add butter and serve hot.

Useful Alloy of Aluminum

Aluminum, an alloy of aluminum with a small proportion of magnesium, is now manufactured in quantity.
The extreme lightness of aluminum with its high thermal conductivity, is able to render it well adapted for aeroplane engine cylinders. On account of the toughness and strength of the metal, it is being used not only for cylinders, but also for crank cases water pumps, intake manifolds and the various other things connected with the manufacture of an engine which could admit of the use of cast ings of any kind. The use of this metal for cylinders makes a considerable reduction in the weight of the average aeroplane engine.

CORRECT DRESS FOR WOMEN

News From Columbia

Columbia, Ala., Jan. 25.—Prof. J. H. Hobby, the High School Inspector, of Auburn, and also connected with the United States Department of Agriculture, with headquarters at Auburn, and with the special permission of visiting Prof. L. N. Thurman of the same institution in organizing the local corn clubs and parallel thereto the girls' tomato clubs made his annual visit to the Houston County High School and spent the entire day by inspecting the work of the school yesterday, advising with the teachers and officials and collecting the usual data as to the school conditions. After Professor Hobby had paid his annual routine of inspection in an old dress to the student body he said among other things: I wish to contribute you upon having a High School here and especially do I wish to congratulate the boys upon the magnificent athletic field, the department of music upon the ability in securing the splendid player piano and the girls club for the momentous work in fitting this elegant auditorium with the magnificent interior blinds. Also the school was complimented upon the splendid equipment for physics, chemistry and biology as well as the library and museum. Prof. Hobby then addressed his attention to the boys' corn club work and the girls' turn to club work and clubs of which were organized for the carrying on of that work during the coming year. His speech was responded to by the high school yell and the high school chorus which saluted the special compliment to the institution by saying that it was indeed unusual for a public official to pay such compliment to others in the absence of expected duty but said:
